Questions

- How much Processwork experience do I need?
- How long will it take me?
- Are there scholarships?
- Ok, so the Bundle is $7,995 per year but what other costs are involved?
- What if I can only do one residency instead of two?

Being a Processwork Diplomat

- Recognize, appreciate and explore all aspects of experience – conscious and objective; unconscious or dreamlike; subtle and intangible atmospheres
- Use self-awareness techniques to work with one's own difficult states, moods, biases and emotions, areas of difficulty and personal edges
- Understand and work with conflict, edges, and challenges as resources for personal growth and change
- Value experiences, people and attitudes which are outside of one's identity as aspects of oneself
- Work confidently with issues that have strong emotional and social impact
- Provide deep democracy leadership and facilitation that supports all parts and all levels of our experience

Processwork Diploma Practitioner Training

- Personal development: fluidity with your core edges; access to your secondary processes, support to burn your wood and transform internalized oppressions
- Building your practitioner toolkit - intervention breadth and depth, observation/modelling/theory from expert practitioners; individual case specific theory and techniques
- Practice! Gaining experience and confidence while under supervision - applying your skills in real life complex solutions guided by expert support
- Making your original contribution: Diploma Final Project
